If you ever want to find out anything about the Vietnam Veterans Memorial and POW/MIA issues go to this lady's web site. I've known Sharon for many years and she knows her stuff. I've looked at the web site and it is a wealth of information that I didn't know. If you ever have a student who is going to do research on The Wall or POW/MIA issues it would be a good site to have them look at. TouchtheWall@aol.com, www.TouchTheWall.org

This Month during the War in Vietnam

March 8, 1965 - The first U.S. conventional combat troops arrive in Vietnam as 3500 Marines from the 9th Marine Regiment, land at China Beach to defend the American air base at Da Nang. They join 23,000 American military advisors already in Vietnam

March 1 1966, The final phase of operation "White Wing" commenced, moving into the jungle covered Cay Giep Mountains. B-52's blasted openings in the thick jungle canopy, permitting engineer teams to descend from helo's to clear LZ's for the 2nd Brigade. Sweeping down the mountain slopes, the 1st Cav troops encountered little resistance as the main body of the 6th & 18th NVA battalions had fled. The 1st Cavalry Division had proven the effectiveness of the Air Mobil concept airlifting entire infantry battalions a total of 78 times and moved artillery batteries 55 times. In 41 days of enemy contact, the 1st Cav clashed with all three regiments of the Sao Vang Division and rendered five of the nine battalions ineffective for combat.

March 25, 1968, The US Army alerted the 1st Brigade of the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) for deployment to Vietnam. At peak strength the brigade had over 6,000 personnel assigned and was one of the most potent fighting forces in the Republic of Vietnam. The 5th I.D. had an AO (area of operation) near the DMZ. In June, the Red Devils received stand-down orders with Stateside redeployment to commence on 1 July 1971. On 22 August 1971, the Brigade colors were inactivated at Fort Carson until the next Division call-up.

March 2 1968 CHU LAI--The offensive phase of Operation Russell Beach, which began on Jan. 13 when thousands of Americal, Division, 2nd ARVN Div., and Marine troops swept into an 11 1/2-mile cordon around the Batangan Peninsula ended on Feb. 10. Activity has now entered Phase IV, which is of unlimited duration and is mainly controlled by Quang Ngai Province officials. The operation accounted for 206 Viet Cong killed and 201 VC infrastructure members, 140 VC suspects, and 104 prisoners of war detained. Sixty-five weapons, including six crew-served, were captured, while more than 14,000 meters of tunnels and 241 structures were destroyed.

March 23, 1973, The last US conventional combat troops leave Vietnam. The withdrawal of U.S. personnel resulted in a collapsing economy throughout South Vietnam. Millions of people had depended on the money spent by Americans in Vietnam. Thieu's government was ill-equipped to treat the mass unemployment and deepening poverty that resulted from the U.S. withdrawal. The ARVN still received $700 million from the U.S. Congress and was twice the size of the Communist forces, but morale was collapsing. More than 200,000 ARVN soldiers deserted in 1974 in order to be with their families.

Quote

On December 9, 2005, CNN covered an interview of a US Special Forces soldier, a member of an elite sniper team. A Reuters reporter trying to milk the interview for all it was worth asked the young soldier, in a less than respectful tone, and in an effort to make him feel guilty, "What do you feel, if anything, when you shoot an Al Qaeda freedom fighter from such a long distance?" The young soldier shrugged his shoulders and replied. "RECOIL" & turned and walked away.

The Man in the Doorway

They came in low and hot, close to the trees and dropped their tail in a flare, rocked forward and we raced for the open doorways. This was always the worst for us, we couldn't hear anything and our backs were turned to the tree line. The best you could hope for was a sign on the face of the man in the doorway, leaning out waiting to help with a tug or to lay down some lead. Sometimes you could glance quickly at his face and pick up a clue as to what was about to happen. We would pitch ourselves in headfirst and tumble against the scuffed riveted aluminum, grab for a handhold and will that son-of-a-bitch into the air.

Sometimes the deck was slick with blood or worse, sometimes something had been left in the shadows under the web seats, and sometimes they landed in a shallow river to wash them out. Sometimes they were late, sometimes they were parked in some other LZ with their rotors turning a lazy arc, a ghost crew strapped in once too often, motionless, waiting for their own lift, their own bags, once too often into the margins,

The getting on and the getting off were the worst for us but this was all he knew, the man in the doorway, he was always standing there in the noise, watching, urging...swinging out with his gun, grabbing the black plastic and heaving, leaning out and spitting, spitting the taste away, as though it would go away...

They came in low and hot, close to the trees and dropped their tail in a flare, rocked forward and began to kick the boxes out, bouncing against the skids, piling up on each other, food and water, and bullets...a thousand pounds of Cs, warm water and rounds, 7.62mm...half a ton of life and death.

And when the deck was clear, we would pile the bags, swing them against their weight and throw them through the doorway, his doorway, onto his deck and nod and he'd speak into that little mic and they'd go nose down and lift into their last flight, their last extraction. Sometimes he'd raise a thumb or perhaps a fist or sometimes just a sly, knowing smile, knowing we were staying and he was going but also knowing he'd be back in a blink, standing in the swirling noise and rotor wash, back to let us rush through his door and skid across his deck and will that son-of-a-bitch into the air.

They came in low and hot, close to the trees and dropped their tail in a flare, rocked forward, kicked out the boxes and slipped the litter across the deck and sometimes he'd lean down and hold the IV and brush the dirt off of a bloodless face, or hold back the flailing arms and tears, a thumbs-up to the right seat and you're only minutes away from the white sheets and the saws and the plasma,

They came in low and hot, close to the trees and dropped their tail in a flare, rocked forward and we'd never hear that sound again without feeling our stomachs go just a bit weightless, listen just a bit closer for the gunfire and look up for the man in the doorway.

Haley House

February 14 2006, Chapter 787 was represented during the Press conference and Ribbon Cutting ceremonies for the Haley House Fund. This organization provides support for family members of severely injured military personnel who are in the VA Hospital in Tampa. The support includes by is not limited to, financial, housing, transportation and personal care. This is an all volunteer group where 99% of the funds go to the support effort. Many of our wounded and severely disabled veterans undergoing treatment at the VA hospital, do not have the resources to bring family members to the Tampa area and provide living accommodations for them. That's were the Haley House comes to the rescue. Whether it's a shoulder to cry on or a plan ticket home, the Haley House is there 24/7.

Criteria for acceptance: Veteran or Service member who is undergoing extended episodic outpatient therapy, treatment or evaluation.

The family member or caregiver whose hospitalized loved one is seriously ill undergoing surgery, receiving rehabilitation, hospice or any other significant medical condition and who lives over 50 miles or 1 hour from the hospital.

A Thank You, from a brother Vet

We will be getting the Chapter's electric wheelchair back shortly. Here is the Thank You letter from Mike Weber to Chapter 787 and I will be publishing it in the next edition of the Recon. Help Brother Veterans is what it is all about. Tom Hall

This past Monday, February 7, 2006 I finally received the news I had been waiting for since last May. The VA has approved my request for an electric wheelchair and lift gate! How can I ever thank VVA Chapter 787 for changing my life over the past 9 months. As you all may know I was admitted into Hospice at home due to end stage liver disease (Hepatitis C) in March 2005. Although I have survived the battle till now, the VA has made my life more difficult by denying me this form of independence.

VVA Chapter 787 contacted my wife last year and, with the help of my VVA Chapter 916, delivered an electric wheelchair for me to use until I was approved for one by the VA. The day it arrived I took it out for a "test drive" around the neighborhood. It was the first time I had been out of the house, unassisted, in what seems like a lifetime. I became the "dog walker" and made so many friends in the neighborhood - I felt reborn!

Now that I will be receiving my own chair AND lift gate watch out world - here I come! My sincere thanks to the chapter that helped me explore the world around me and give me the courage to look beyond my own backyard. And a special thanks to my Hospice Angels - what would I do without you?

POW-MIA

The remains of four soldiers missing in action during the Vietnam War were identified on February 15th.

All from the US Army's 101st Airborne Division, they are Maj. Jack L. Barker of Waycross, Ga.; Capt. John F. Dungan of Roselle, N.J.; Sgt. William E. Dillender of Naples FL.; and Pfc. John J. Chubb of Gardena, Calif.

Their helicopter was shot down March 20, 1971. Barker and Dugan were piloting a HU-1H Huey with Dillender and Chubb on board while on a troop extraction mission in the Savannakhet province of Laos.

Crash site surveys in 2002 and 2004 found some remains, wreckage and insignia.

Att: Unit Commander

Gentlemen;

At the Board of Directors meeting held on Wed. afternoon, December 28th, there was some discussion about the need to clarify the position of the use of the hall by the VVA and other non-member units as allowed by the rental agreements.

As with all units, each unit is allocated one day per month for the use of the hall for meeting purposes. If available, after clearance from the Board of Directors, other special events may be scheduled. It is a recognized fact that the renting units have access, and use of the hall at the sole discretion of the Board. Any changes, or additions to the facilities must first be cleared with the Board.

As it is relative to all organizations, including the registered member units of the Association; that items belonging to, or part of the Association inventory may not be removed from the premises without prior explicit approval from the Board of Directors.

As a reminder, the VVA is not a registered member of the Association, as are several other organizations; they are required to follow the regulations as set by the Board of Directors.

Sincerely,

William A. Hayes

Bill Introduced In Congress To Award the Medal of Honor to a Vietnam Marine

109th Congress
1st Session

Submitted By: Kevin Ruhl

H. R. 4310

To authorize and request the President to award the Medal Of Honor to Richard Gresko, of Newtown, Pennsylvania, for acts of valor in the Republic of Vietnam on March 11-12, 1970, while serving as a Lance Corporal in the United States Marine Corps during the Vietnam War.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
November 10th, 2005

Mr. Fitzpatrick of Pennsylvania introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Armed Services.
A BILL

To authorize and request the President to award the Medal of Honor to Richard Gresko, of Newtown, Pennsylvania, for acts of valor in the Republic of Vietnam in March 11-12, 1970, while serving as a Lance Corporal in the Marine Corps during the Vietnam War.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, Section 1.

Authorization and request for award of Medal Of Honor to Richard Gresko for acts of valor during the Vietnam War.

Authorization: The President is authorized and requested to award the Medal of Honor under Section 6241 of Title 10 United States Code.

Action Described: the acts of valor referred to in subsection (a) are the actions of Richard Gresko in the Republic of Vietnam on the night of March 11-12, 1970, while a Lance Corporal in the United States Marine Corps serving in the Third Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment, First Marine Division. On that night, Lance Corporal Gresko was in one element of an ambush set up to protect a village from enemy attack. Around midnight, his element ambushed a Viet Cong unit which was attempting to enter the village. During the ensuing fight, Lance Corporal Gresko observed an enemy hand grenade land near his position. With complete disregard for his own personal safety and fully aware of the dangers involved, he unhesitatingly threw himself on top of the grenade, absorbing most of the blast fragments with his own body in order to protect his men from certain injury and possible death. Although painfully wounded, he continued to direct his men's actions until the squad made their sweep.

Waiver of time Limitations: The award under subsection (a) may be made without regard to the time limitations specified in section 6248 of Title 10, United States Code.

Edges of the Wall, By Tim Trask

The date "1959" is engraved on the upper left hand corner of the first panel on the east side of The Wall. At the lower right corner of the first panel of the west side, we find the date "1975." When the memorial was finished, in 1982, some people expressed surprise at those dates. The Vietnam War, they thought, started in either 1964 or 1965 and ended in 1973 with the withdrawal of troops following the Paris Peace agreement that resulted in Nobel prizes for Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho. Thanks to the efforts of our own historians, nearly everyone on VWAR-L knows that the origins of the conflict go back much earlier in the century. The truth is, however, that 1959 and 1975 do not even begin to encompass the years of grief brought to American families by deaths in the Vietnam War.

On line 1 of the first panel on the east side of The Wall, two of the names are indeed those of soldiers killed in 1959. They are Chester N. Ovnard (MSGT, Army, from El Reno, Oklahoma) and Dale R. Buis (Major, Army, from Pender, Nebraska). Both of them were killed on July 8, 1959. But they weren't the first Americans killed in Viet Nam.

Harry G. Cramer was killed nearly two years before Ovnard and Buis, on October 21, 1957. His name doesn't appear on line 1 of the first panel, however; it appears on line 78. Cramer was a Captain in the Army from Johnstown, Pennsylvania. Johnstown's losses began in 1957 and didn't end until 1973, with the death of Kenneth Doyle Scaife on January 3rd. Scaife was an E2 in the Navy. Between 1957 and 1973, Johnstown lost 24 of its sons to the war. In 1970, the population of Johnstown was a bit over 42,000. The experiences of a couple of other cities will serve as a point of comparison. Haverhill, Massachusetts, the city I lived in during my junior-high and high-school years, is about the same size as Johnstown. Haverhill lost 8 sons. Brockton, Massachusetts, the city I live in now, had a population of 89,000 in 1970 and lost 15 soldiers, sailors, and Marines. Johnstown, in other words, lost people at about three times the normal rate.

The last death from the Vietnam War is more difficult to determine. Eleven hours before the cease-fire deadline, on January 27, 1973, Lieutenant Colonel William B. Nolde was listed as the last U.S. "combat death," but American military personnel continued to be killed in Viet Nam. More than two years after the peace agreement of 1973 went into effect, on April 30, 1975, the temporary president of South Viet Nam, General Duong Van "Big" Minh, turned the government over to the Communists. The remaining Americans had fled the day before, but American losses continued. On May 13, 1975, 25 Air Force lives were lost, and on May 15, 1975, another 18 Americans (14 Marines, 2 Navy, and 2 Air Force) were killed. At least one more soldier died in 1975: Jon O. Nacy, an Army PFC from Detroit who died on November 8, and he wasn't the last. On November 15, 1981, Major Eddie B. Story (Army) of Jonesboro, Tennessee was added to the list. And the names continue to be added to The Wall. There are those who will continue to die as a direct or indirect result of their war experience whose names are not yet listed and may never be. And there is the continuing pain of the families for whom the war has meant irrevocable grief and suffering that will continue.

When Harry Cramer was killed in 1957, Danny Marshall of Waverly, West Virginia had already been born, but he was just 7 months old--a baby who probably couldn't walk or talk. Danny may have been the last-born American killed in the Viet Nam War. When he died, along with the other 13 Marines on May 15, 1975, Captain Cramer had been dead for nearly 18 years. No American who was killed in Viet Nam was born after Harry Cramer was killed, but Danny came close.

How long does a war last? It lasts a lot longer than the dates that are usually assigned to it by the historians. When Harry Cramer was born, in 1926, Washington Carver Mable of Brenham, Texas was 22 years old. Yet Mable lived another ten years after Cramer was killed. Mable was killed in Viet Nam, also--in 1967. He was 63 years old. He'd lived through WWI, WWII, and Korea. His rank was PFC E-3. But even Mable wasn't the oldest soldier to die in Viet Nam, though he was very likely the oldest PFC. As far as I can tell, the honor of being the oldest soldier to die in Viet Nam goes to Master Sergeant Jimmie Ray Harrison, of DeKalb, IL, who was born on November 13, 1903 and died in

Viet Nam on March 14, 1968. He was approaching 65 years of age--an old soldier who didn't seem content just to fade away. He was nearly 14 when my father was born, and my father was a college graduate before he was drafted in 1940--about a year before the U.S. had joined WWII. When Pearl Harbor was bombed, Jimmie Ray Harrison was 38 years old. He died in a war zone 27 years after the "date that will live in infamy." It's conceivable that Jimmie Ray could have been Danny Marshall's great grandfather (he was 54 when Danny was born), and while they couldn't have served at the same time, Danny and Jimmie Ray were killed in the same war.

Then there's the soldier whose age is not recorded. He's listed in at least one database as having been born on January 1, 1900. No one seems to know where he came from, either. His hometown is listed as "not known," and the closest information on him available is that he came from California. We know his service number, his branch, and his rank, but not much else. He's almost an unknown soldier. Oh yeah. We know one more thing about him--his name: Robert M. Bennet. And we know that he was killed in Viet Nam.

These names and numbers suggest some of the edges of the Vietnam conflict, but those edges are not nearly as distinct as the edges of other wars. Was it a real war? Who was responsible? When did it begin? The answer to that last question seems to depend on what you mean by "begin." When did it end? Again, the answer is not easy, but the addition of names since 1982 suggests that The Wall is still a work in progress. The better question seems to be "When will it end?"
